

Asphalt Cowboy's Chili Cook-Off
Buckaroo Flats {Redding Rodeo Grounds}
Friday May 10th 2024
Set up: 4:00 pm
Tasting & Judging: 6:00 pm

What's happening:

The Asphalt Cowboys present their annual "Cowboy Chili {with or without Beans!} Cook-Off". This is a fun event, and is not a sanctioned "Chili Cook-off." Best chili regardless wins!

We will be holding the cook off on Thursday night as part of our Street Dance & Quick Draw Contest.

The Asphalt Cowboys would like to invite you to enter a team in our Chili Cook-off. This is a fun event with lots of folks in Buckaroo Flats for chili tasting, fast draw action and some foot stomping dancing.

To enter the chili cook-off, you must mail or email your completed entry form. Entry Rules are included on the next page.

The Asphalt Cowboys will provide tables for your "cook site." You will need to provide the rest of your equipment. The Asphalt Cowboys will provide tasting cups & spoons and containers for "votes" to be placed in. This is a "prepared" chili event, so there is no "cooking" at the event. Bring your entry already prepared and ready for tasting.

Access to the "cook sites" will be Auditorium Drive at the Asphalt Cowboys' Clubhouse {at the Redding Rodeo Grounds}. Between 4pm and 5:30pm, you will be able to walk into the cook site – bring yourself a wagon or cart - and unload. We ask that you set up early if you can - so that we can keep the "cook sites" from getting too dang hecktick.

Costumes, musical instruments, singing, and dancing are encouraged by the Cowboys. We also encourage fun entry names, like: "The Four Alarm Fire - Chili Brigade" or "Shasta Sam's Old Miner's Special," etc. This is a fun event, so fun is encouraged. Just remember, we are gathered around the "camp fire" at Buckaroo Flats so there is no electricity.

ASPHALT COWBOY'S CHILI COOK-OFF RULES

Asphalt Cowboy, Kurt Heuer {the Cook-off Chairman} sez: "They are a few rules that's got to be followed:

"Rule number one: Ye got to enter to win, please mail or email your completed entry form Just fill 'er out, clip 'er off, stuff 'er in an envy-lop, and send or email 'er to the Asphalt Cowboys. There is No Entry Fee!"

"Rule number two (that #2, for them whats ah keeping count): You kin make your chili by your lonesome or with up to two friends. They kin hep ya stir the pots, they kin shill fer vote's fer ya, or they kin just sit on their a, ah... behinds, and jaw with ya. But only three are allowed on a team (cause only three could sit on the seat of a chuck wagon)."

"Rule number three (#3, and I'm a running out of fingers here): ya got ta bring yer own cook stove to keep yer chili hot. I'll have a cook table fer ya, and a table to set yer other possibles on. Yer stove gots ta be heated by propane (ya know, them little green bottles) or by Sterno (with a gall-dern chaffing dish). Ya'all also need pots with tight fitting lids, sumptin to stir your concoction with and a stirdy lawahn chair to rest yer sorry aes on." Yer chili has to be "edible." That thar means, you've got to be willing to eat yer own brew and safely serve it to other cowboys and cowgirls. So, ya got to bring a three-gallon minimum serving of yer "prepared" chili to the cook off, and be ready fer tasting (and voting) at 6pm. Remember: Yer chili must be prepared in a sanitary manner; must be kept heated to 145 degrees (F) at the start of the 6pm tasting and maintained at that temperature throughout the event; and that all the meat ya tosses into the pot must be thoroughly cooked (none of that dag-nabbed sueshe stuff!). We'll have little tasting cups and spoons fer ya.

"Rule number four: (#4) What they heck is "Chili"? What that's easy. Yer ta make they kind of chili that the rip-roaring Asphalt Cowboys eat when they is out on the range. The Cowboys like chili whats fills 'em up and tastes good. And since they are a workin' man, they like their chili with plenty of meat(s) with beans as an optional xtra. So, I cook 'em a recipe of chili whats includes: any kind of meat or combination of meats, (I likes ta slip in a little prairie dog, now and then); cooked with chili pepper, various other spices and other ingredients (ya-hoo, on that one!) and with or with out beans. Now don't ya be using other fillers, such as pasta or rice. Who ever heard a cowpoke ask fer wild rice or layzonya at the end of a hard day's riding."

"Rule number five: (#5) (Dag-nab it, I done run outah fingers). This here will have ta be the last rule, cause I can't reach my feet ta count on my toes, and I need my other hand ta hold my "Ol'-Yeller." So, lets talk prizes. I'll be havin' a select team of "Sober Judges" select the "Judges Choice" winners. They will pick the sample they thought just tasted the best, cause cowboys don't give a hoot about "aroma," "color" or "aftertaste," ("aftertaste," what they heck is that, I judge my chili on whether one of my hands kin empty a saloon, of a bunch of drunks, with his f...er...flatulence). If yer chili meets the test of my judges. you win da Big Prize: $200.00 cash fer First!!! Second takes in $100.00; Third takes in $50.00. Ok, so my "Sober Judges" have picked the grub they think is the best. Well, how 'bout the rest of the cowpokes in the "Gulch." All the hands (the public) in the Gulch will be able ta vote fer their favorite chili by dropping a ticket in a can at yer cook site. At 7pm the "voting" and tasting will be declared over and the votes, in each can counted. The cook with the most tickets, will be declared the "Peoples Choice" winner. As the "choice" of the folks, you will win yer self a cash prize of 50% of all tasting tickets sold, a special prize handpicked by the chili chairman and bragging rights fer yer chili as the "Peoples Choice". So be sure to tell yer friends to come on down and be sure to vote early and often. Gol-dang, that sounds good." A dang fancy braggin' trophy is goin' home to the "Judges Choice" winners and "Peoples Choice" winner as well.

"Alright, there has ta be one more thing. They decision of the Judges (remember they're "Sober" – I hope!) is final. No whinin' 'bout losin'. Jus' better luck next time!"
